THE FOUR "R's" BEHIND JAIL BARS

Jacksonville's No.1 Copper is Gungho for "Choppers"

JACKSONVILLE — Just mention "choppers" and Sheriff Dale Carson's face lights up.

He recently added two Hughes—300 helicopters to his law enforcement fleet, and they quickly proved their worth even before they were put on regular patrols.

During the training phase of "operation chopper" the two units, equipped with powerful searchlights, provided dramatic assistance in a variety of missions such as a night search for a drowned child; and tracking armed robbers fleeing through a wooded area.

They also put on an effective show of modern police work during the annual Georgia-Florida football game at the Gator Bowl.

"We usually have 12 to 15 cars broken into and burglarized in the Gator Bowl parking lot during a big game," Carson explained, "but this time, with the helicopters circling overhead, we didn't have a single car broken into, and no theft reports."

The helicopters circling the parking lots were in radio contact with motorcycle patrolmen on the ground, and whenever the airborne deputies spotted suspicious characters or actions around parked cars, a patrolman was dispatched to the location immediately.

"We used to spend at least two hours after a big game just handling complaints about broken auto windows and stolen items," Carson said. "What a relief to have none!"

The Sheriff's "eye in the sky" also served as a deterrent to drunks, brawlers and reckless drivers. No traffic accidents were reported, and there were no arrests for fighting, drunkenness or disorderly conduct.

Some record for a crowd in the neighborhood of 50,000!

SHERIFF COMMENDED FOR DRUG FIGHT

LAKE WALES — Polk County Sheriff Monroe Brannen is seen receiving a commendation for his fight against the drug problem from (left) Mrs. L. A. Hobkirk and Mrs. Frank Mullins. Lt. Earl Branch of the Sheriff's Department received a similar award on behalf of his fellow officers. The Sheriff is offering a cash reward to help catch drug pushers in Lake Wales. CO-WORKERS HONOR "BEAUTIFUL PERSON"

TITUSVILLE — When Elizabeth Cooner joined the Brevard County Sheriff's Department nine years ago she was the only processor of civil papers and also handled the duties of dispatcher, bookkeeper, jail matron and juvenile officer. Sheriff Leigh Wilson adjusts Mrs. Cooner's corsage at a special farewell luncheon in her honor. Not only was the director of civil processing served with a warrant for desertion (of the Sheriff's Department) and a writ of replevin ordering her to take possession of her many gifts, she also received a call during the luncheon from her son that she had a second grandchild. One of her younger co-workers summed up everyone's feelings when she said, "You're a beautiful person, Mrs. Cooner." (Photo by TODAY, Cocoa)

FORMER SHERIFF DIES

BLOUNTSTOWN — George C. Guilford, Jr. was the Sheriff of Calhoun County from 1953 to 1957 and served as a Deputy Sheriff for 11 years before that.

He died on November 20, 1970 in the Calhoun General Hospital following an extended illness.

Born in Columbia, Ala., February 1, 1908, he lived many years in the Calhoun County area.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mae S. Guilford, Blountstown; two sons, Frank E. Guilford and George C. Guilford III, both of Blountstown; his mother, Mrs. Minnie Guilford, Blountstown; two brothers, James R. Guilford, Overstreet, and Edward F. Guilford, Montgomery, Ala.; two sisters, Mrs. Virginia Knight, Blountstown, and Mrs. Josephine Whiddon, Chattahoochee.

PEACE PILL OR PCP RUNNING THIRD

TALLAHASSEE — While marijuana and LSD continue to be the number one and number two most used drugs, a relatively unknown hallucinogenic drug has moved into third place.

Known as the Peace Pill or PCP, phencyclidine is well known to drug users according to the Florida Department of Law Enforcement.

The effect of PCP is similar to that of LSD, according to Willis Booth of the FDLE.

"PCP is being sold on the street for other than what is is," Booth said. "Sometimes they sell it for mescaline and sometimes for LSD."

Originally used as an anesthetic by veterinarians, there is little information on its effects when used by humans.

SUSPICIONS AROUSED

ST. AUGUSTINE — The suspicions of Sheriff's officers were aroused when several youths on surfboards were seen frequently visiting the same small island. St. Johns County Sheriff Dudley Garrett, Jr. (seen above) and Wayne Tanner, operator of the Sheriff's Department boat, found the potted marijuana during an inspection of the island.

"RED-DOG ALERT"

SARASOTA — In football jargon it means nailing the quarterback before he can throw a pass, but to law enforcement officers, bank officials and merchants in Sarasota and Manatee counties it means nailing the bad check artist before he can pass any bogus checks.

The idea is to identify the bad check passer and circulate his description to merchants.

A communications network, similar to a chain letter, between law enforcement agencies, banks and local merchants, can get the description of a possible violator circulated within minutes.

JANUARY 1971

Frank Cline's "Peace Patrol"

ARCADIA — The Peace River (flowing south from Polk County through Hardee, DeSoto and Charlotte counties and emptying into Charlotte Harbor at Punta Gorda) is free from industrial and domestic pollution and DeSoto County Sheriff Frank Cline wants to keep it that way.

"There aren't too many agencies willing to keep a close eye on the river so I thought I'd make it my project," said Sheriff Cline.

He doesn't have a regular schedule, but when the workload isn't too heavy, the weather's nice and the river beckons, the Sheriff takes his airboat to a ramp west of here where he starts his "Peace Patrol."

The memory of what happened in March of 1967, when the river became thick with phosphate sludge, makes people thankful the Sheriff is keeping an eye on what the Peace River Valley chambers of commerce consider one of the area's chief assets.

"Knowing that someone is out there looking out for us makes a lot of difference," said one resident.

And should he spot signs of pollution, Cline will notify the proper state and local authorities.

But so far things are peaceful on the Peace River and Sheriff Cline finds "it's relaxing to get away from the grind and at the same time keep check on an often forgotten segment of the county."

LOOKS HALLOWEEN BUT REALLY NOT

Ranchers and children of staff members at the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch took part in a bicycle parade in which they decorated themselves and their two wheelers. Prizes were awarded for the best cover-ups.

Who Gives A Damn What A Soldier Gives

Take a man, put him alone
Put him 10,000 miles from home
Empty his heart of all his blood
Make him live in sweat and mud.

This is the life I have to live
While my soul to the devil I give.
You burn your draft cards and march at dawn.
And paint your signs on the White House lawn.

For there is nothing better for you to do,
And I'm supposed to die for you.
For you I heard my buddy cry,
I'll remember till the day I die.

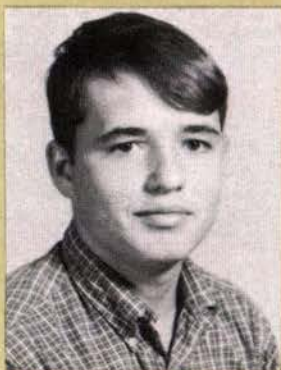

I saw his body bloody red,
I heard the medic say,
"I'm sorry he's dead."

It's a hard price to have to pay
Not to live another day.
He had the guts to fight and die,
He paid the price but what did he buy?

He bought your life by losing his
But, who gives a damn what a soldier gives?
His wife, his daughter and his proud son,
But they are about the only ones!

Pfc. James Robert Barnhart

Pfc. Barnhart lived at the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch before entering military service. He wrote this poem recently while on duty in Viet Nam, "to show the way I feel about anti-war protesters."

Jim Barnhart as a Rancher.

FLU SHOTS WORKING

Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch Executive Director Harry Weaver knocks on wood every time he talks about it, but so far this flu season the Boys Ranch has had few cases of flu. Weaver attributes this to shots like the one Alyne Auxier is receiving from Dr. Frederick Mickler of Jasper. Helping give the shots are (left to right) public health nurse Lola Weaver, Boys Ranch nurse Phyllis Weaver and Dr. Mickler's nurse, Mrs. Jimmie DuPree. Dr. Mickler is one of many doctors who donate their services to the Ranch.

SHERIFFS GIRLS VILLA GETS SANTA'S HELP

CLEARWATER — In forwarding the above picture to THE SHERIFF'S STAR, Pinellas County Sheriff Don Genung (standing) matter-of-factly referred to "the recent visit of Santa Claus to my office," indicating the Sheriff was either caught up in the Christmas spirit or had found evidence the old gentleman was indeed St. Nick. Whichever the case, the purpose of the visit was to promote a Santa show at a local theatre to raise money for the Florida Sheriffs Girls Villa. The party was put on by members of Zeta Omicron, ESA. For $1 the children saw a movie and cartoon, received candy, and read Santa their lists of toys for Christmas.

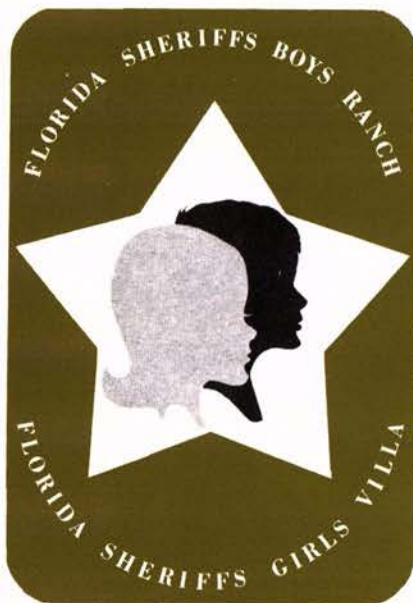

FRIENDS FROM WAY BACK

TALLAHASSEE—When Leon County Sheriff Raymond Hamlin (right) presented former Highlands County Sheriff Broward Coker with a Florida Sheriffs Association Lifetime Honorary Membership plaque, for his generous donations to the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch, they reminisced back to about 1935 when they first met in Highlands County. Coker was a deputy at the time, and Hamlin's father was a jailer. "This man (Coker) was the one who caused me to go into law enforcement," Hamlin said. Elected Sheriff in 1948, Coker served 20 years as Highlands County's chief law enforcement officer, is a Past President of the Sheriffs Association and is a former member of the Boys Ranch Board of Trustees. Today he heads up the livestock theft division of the Florida Department of Agriculture.

TURKEY FEED

Rehabilitation

The Four "R's" Behind Jail

CLEARWATER — Lacking facilities, personnel, public interest and just plain money, the keepers of city and county jails have historically found themselves running warehouses of humanity where people are brought in, retained for a specified time and released.

"The times they are a changing."

And leading the change, as usual, is Pinellas County Sheriff Don Genung who believes (1) that just putting a man in jail is not enough, (2) that if he doesn't receive help, the inmate will most likely be a repeater and (3) that county and municipal jails can have a significant role in the job of rehabilitating prisoners.

Under the Sheriff's leadership, Chief Steward John R. Dahler, Jr., and Chaplain James Riddle have done the ground work for a rehabilitation program involving vocational training and educational improvement.

FACT: A survey of inmates of the Pinellas County jail showed 75% to be high school drop outs.

FACT: Testing of inmates showed 10% to be on a third grade level.

Sitting in the staff kitchen on the ground floor of the jail, sipping coffee, Dahler outlined the program, much as he has been doing for civic clubs and other groups around the county.

It breaks down into two basic parts. First is the vocational training in the jail kitchen.

A prisoner serving from six months to one year can take 480 hours of culinary arts instruction and receive a certificate of achievement when he finishes. Dahler is a certified teacher in the field and his students get the same course as taught in the county's vocational school.

And the certificates don't say anything about the county jail, just that the course is approved by the Florida State Department of Education.

Since it was started over 200 inmates have completed the culinary arts course. If the inmate doesn't finish the 480 hours before being released, he can continue the course at the vocational training center.

In the women's section a sewing room has been set up and inmates make children's clothing for youngsters in the Head Start program. Their instruction comes from matrons who know how to sew. The women had a special project before Christmas — stuffing Christmas seals for the Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Foundation.

RIGHT — Working side by side with Chief Steward John Dahler, Chaplain James Riddle not only counsels with inmates, he helps them with family problems outside the jail, tries to find them jobs when they get out and prays they won't be back.

THE SHERIFF'S STAR

The other phase of the program has gone beyond the jail and brought in experts in adult education, vocational guidance and related fields to make the inmates aware of the career opportunities.

A general aptitude test is given to interested inmates and a counselor from the school system goes over the results with the prisoner to show him where he has the greatest potential — also to help him plan educational programs that will bolster him, and to suggest areas of greatest vocational ability.

Twice a week an instructor from the county school system comes to the jail and teaches courses in American history, American government, Americanism vs Communism and general subjects which prepare inmates to take the General Equivalency Diploma (GED) test. (The GED is the equivalent of a high school diploma.)

For that 75% of all inmates who never received a high school diploma, a GED opens many doors previously closed tight.

On December 3rd, graduation ceremonies were held for the first four inmates who took and passed the GED test.

Besides these four, several have continued in adult education courses after being released. Many have been guided into vocational courses after being released.

Dahler said the cooperation of the people in the school system has been wonderful. He gave counselors credit for following through with inmates once they are released.

Now they're planning a class in remedial reading which will pick up those at the third grade level.

The response from the community has been very encouraging too, according to Dahler. After his many talks and publicity in the local press, he has been called by people offering jobs to graduates of the culinary arts course.

He's particularly proud of several of his graduates. Like the former truck driver who "couldn't fry a hamburger" when he was put in jail. Today he works in the Jacksonville area as a district manager of a food chain.

Then there's the "kid" who was facing a five-year stretch in Raiford. Dahler found he was a "natural" baker and asked the judge to let the young man live in his home for a year on probation.

He's now in the restaurant business, married and just recently a father. In writing to Dahler the youth asked "Why me? Of all the people in the county jail, why me?"

RIGHT — Inmates bake all the bread and pastry for the jail. In a month, 31,500 well-balanced meals are prepared. That's 378,000 meals a year.

Matron Olive Johnson, Chaplain Riddle and a female prisoner look over some of the dresses the women have made for their own families and underprivileged children in local Headstart programs.

"I told him I had confidence in him, thought he had the potential and knew he needed help," Dahler said.

And right there, though not in so many words, is the key to the whole program: showing the inmates SOMEONE CARES. According to Dahler, this was the thing the prisoners found hardest to believe; and this when they did believe it, had the greatest impact on them.

Through the counseling, the testing, the instruction, the guidance, the inmates gradually realized someone does care. The program has caused a great change in the attitude of not only the inmates directly involved, but also in the attitude of the rest of the prisoners.

"At first they couldn't believe the Sheriff and others were really concerned about them," Dahler said.

The program is still in the groundwork stage when compared with the job which can and needs to be done; but already state and federal prison inspectors are pointing to the Pinellas County jail as an outstanding example of what can be done.

Warehouses or rehabilitation centers?

Prisoners, 97% of them, said they want the program to continue.

"On the Edge of Something Big." Sheriff Don Genung

CLEARWATER — As noted in the coverage by the press, there were no caps and gowns at this graduation and the ceremony lacked the pomp of most such exercises, but the meaning was there for 11 prisoners in the Pinellas County jail.

The commencement address was delivered by Attorney General Robert Shevin to an emotion-packed audience of educators, families and friends, fellow prisoners, and a few guards, in the chapel of the Pinellas County jail.

"You can prove to us, when you get out, whether or not your efforts here have had real meaning," Shevin said as he addressed the graduates of the jail's rehabilitation program.

Declaring the Pinellas program to be the only one of its kind at a county jail in seven southern states, Shevin said it should be an example for all Florida prisons.

He noted that in state prisons, only 25 per cent of the inmates ever receive any type of rehabilitation and that between 75 and 80 per cent of all

A CASE OF COMPASSION FOR THE UNBORN

As modern and progressive as Pinellas Sheriff Don Genung considers his jail to be, he still doesn't think it's a fit place for a baby to be born.

So he was naturally upset when he learned one of his female prisoners was expecting — and soon.

The situation was discovered by a nurse at the jail who found a slip of paper from a clinic in North Carolina where a doctor confirmed that the inmate was pregnant. He said the baby was due in only five days.

The expectant mother had been sentenced to jail for 60 days after being found guilty of passing worthless checks. Her husband was also a prisoner for the same offense.

Several phone calls and some fast talking by the Sheriff got the woman placed on probation by the justice of the peace who sentenced her. He then ordered her to return to Pinellas County after the birth of the baby.

prisoners released from state prisons eventually end up back in jail.

"Rehabilitation on the county level may prevent many (prisoners) from becoming involved in more serious crimes later," the Attorney General said.

"Tonight's graduates," said Pinellas Sheriff Don Genung, "represent the best of teaching and guidance and the conscientious patience of our matrons and chief steward who are interested and concerned with the future of those held here on sentence."

He noted the programs have brought about both a change of attitude and direction on the part of the inmates.

Three female inmates, clad in dresses they made while in jail, received certificates from Matron Edith Hill, sewing course supervisor.

John Dahler, the jail's chief steward and instructor for the culinary arts course, presented diplomas to eight male prisoners who completed 480 hours of theory and application in cooking and baking.

Both the sewing and cooking programs have been offered at the jail for several years.

But the presentation of high school equivalency diplomas to four prisoners was a first and signals the newest phase of the rehabilitation program which has brought adult guidance counselors and adult education instructors to the jail to work with inmates.

After the program was over and a few tears in the audience had been wiped away, Genung said, "I felt we were on the edge of something big."

Good Grammar or Good Will

A JOYFUL THANKSGIVING

The inmates of B2 send their thanks to the staff of Pinellas County Sheif Dept.

We thank God for leting breath be in your bodies to have obtained a joyful Thanksgiving Day with and without your families. We hope this Day will continue on in your lives.

We thank God for you all, for a happy Thanksgiving Day.

What do you want good grammar or good will?

The day after Thanksgiving, all the Pinellas County jail's outgoing mail (which must be censored) contained complimentary references to the Thanksgiving meal prepared in the jail kitchen.

One prisoner even expressed the hope that "your dinner was as good as mine."

And the jailers had posted a message from one of the cell blocks which demonstrated the rare goodwill between prisoners and prison keepers in the Pinellas jail. It is reprinted just as written.

SHERIFFS REFUND UNSPENT MONIES

At least three Sheriffs were able to return money they didn't spend from their 1969-70 budgets.

Sheriff Ed Duff of Volusia County said he had a surplus of $98,362 because he was not able to hire new personnel as soon as was allowed in his budget.

He also credited a new centralized purchasing system and the leasing of 10 patrol cars as money saving factors.

In Gadsden County, Sheriff Robert Martin presented the Board of County Commissioners with a check for $17,140.

Perhaps it's just coincidence, but when this same budget was adopted, it included $18,000 which the county Commission felt Sheriff Martin should have but didn't request. It turned out he was right.

And in Citrus County, Sheriff Burton R. Quinn returned $6,950 explaining the savings were made in salaries, equipment and other accounts.

BREAKING TRADITION

HOLIDAY—At a time of the year when tradition is so important, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Eddinger decided to break with tradition and not give Christmas gifts to customers of their furniture store, Hugo's Wayside Furniture. Instead they presented Pasco County Sheriff Basil Gaines with two checks of $500 each for the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch and Girls Villa.

Presidential Citation For Brevard Deputy

TITUSVILLE — Brevard County Deputy Sheriff Lt. Rollin Zimmerman has received a Distinguished Service Citation from President Richard Nixon.

Sheriff Leigh Wilson announced the award which recognized Zimmerman's "outstanding work with both young people and adults in combating narcotics addiction."

An accompanying letter from Presidential Assistant James Keogh said, "President Nixon is sending you this certificate as a token of his respect for your commitment to the welfare of others. And it comes with his best wishes for the years ahead."

Lt. Zimmerman serves as Sheriff Wilson's juvenile officer and has been conducting talks on narcotics and drug abuse. He was also involved in organizing a group of junior deputies in South Brevard County several years ago.

Sheriff Wilson said he didn't know the President learned of Zimmerman's activities, but he "deserves the citation and I am happy his work was noticed in Washington."

CHANGES DEPARTMENT BUT NOT KIDS

CLEARWATER — When school crossing guard Paul Leuenberger (left) found the city of Largo had annexed the area around the Ponce de Leon Elementary school, he transferred from the Pinellas County Sheriff's Department to the Largo Police Department so he could continue guarding the children he loved. Pinellas County Sheriff Don Genung presented Leuenberger with an appreciation plaque on behalf of the school patrol and the children, while thanking both him and his wife for donating $100 to both the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch and the Florida Sheriffs Girls Villa.

Emergency Loan Pays Dividends

CLEARWATER — An emergency loan has paid big dividends according to Pinellas County Sheriff Don Genung and Clearwater Police Chief Frank Daniels.

The loan came about when Pasco-Pinellas State Attorney James Russell found himself with more cases to be investigated than he had investigators. Genung and Daniels both agreed to loan the State Attorney one officer for 90 days.

The dividend, which was unexpected, was the improvement noted in the officers when they returned to their departments.

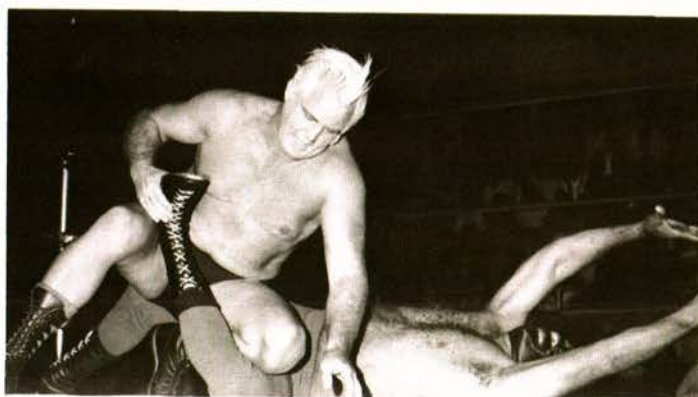

While working for the State Attorney they gained a new respect for the laws they enforce, they learned how to handle evidence, draft search warrants and prepare cases for trial.

The emergency has passed, but both Daniels and Genung want to continue the assignments, rotating men.

SHERIFF BEARD THANKS SANTA'S HELPERS

TAMPA — Thanking the Hillsborough County Poultry Growers Association and its President, L. M. Richardson (center), is getting to be an annual job for Sheriff Malcolm Beard (right). This year as last, members brought presents to their annual Christmas party and presented them to Sheriff Beard to deliver to the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch. Major Walter C. Heinrich of the Sheriff's Crime Prevention Division was also on hand, and it's a good thing he was — it took two cars to carry away all the presents.

Boys Ranch Trustee Doing His Thing

In the ring, Eddie Graham is all business. Here he is giving the "business" to a masked Blue Demon. Graham is probably the best known, best liked wrestler in the history of Florida wrestling and has appeared many times in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Live Oak

Outside the ring, Graham is quickly surrounded by young and old fans seeking his autograph. Besides the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch, he has been associated with many other youth activities.

LIVE OAK — Following a tradition which began with the founding of Cal Farley's Boys Ranch in Texas, some of the top names in Florida wrestling put on a special benefit wrestling match here for the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch.

Sponsoring the match locally were the Live Oak Jaycees with Jaycee member Gerry Lord and Suwannee County Sheriff J. M. "Buddy" Phillips serving as co-chairmen.

But, according to Sheriff Phillips, most of the credit, for making the event a success, should go to wrestling great Eddie Graham.

"We couldn't have done it without his help," Phillips said.

And Graham's interest in the Boys Ranch is not new.

He has been a member of the Boys Ranch Board of Trustees for years. And the involvement of the sport of wrestling, in the Boys Ranch cause, goes back to the very founding of the Ranch.

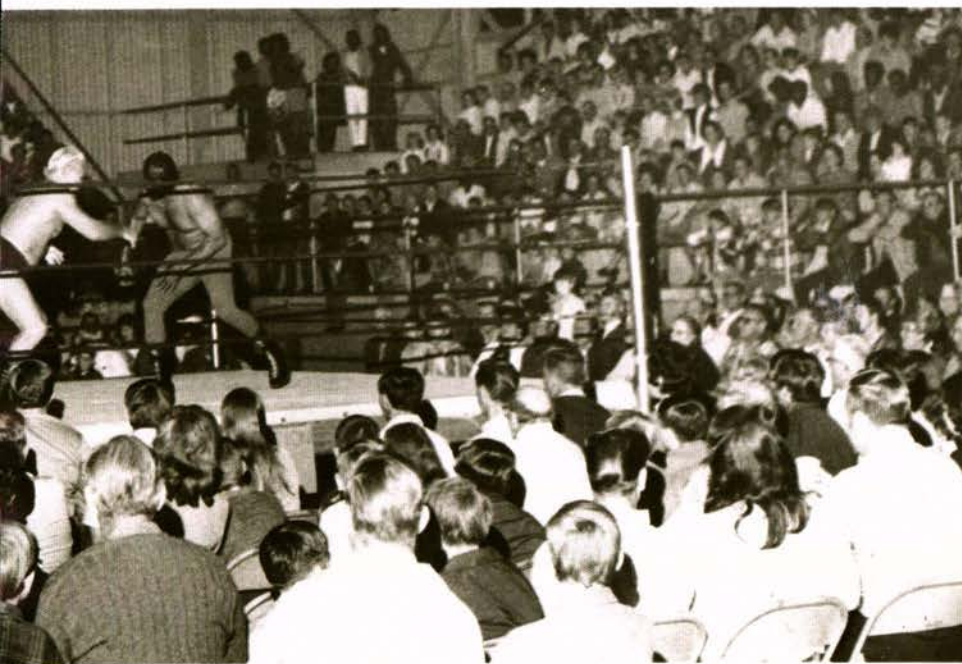

It was on a trip to Texas to pick up a prisoner, that former Hillsborough County Sheriff Ed Blackburn and Florida Sheriffs Bureau (now the Florida Department of Law Enforcement) Director Don McLeod happened to hear many good things about Cal Farley's Boys Ranch.

What Blackburn (now a State Representative) and McLeod heard made a great impression and when they returned to Florida they began to talk to sheriffs about starting a Sheriffs Boys Ranch.

It was about this time that Graham decided on Florida as his new home.

The association of Graham with the Sheriffs Boys Ranch was a natural since Cal Farley was a well known wrestler and Cal's Boys Ranch was supported by many wrestlers. Today, every sanctioned wrestling match in the State of Florida sends a percentage of the gate to the Boys Ranch.

An interesting note: about the time the Sheriffs were making their plans, a Texas wrestler by the name of Dory Funk was the superintendent of Cal Farley's Boys Ranch.

Today Dory Funk, Jr. is the World Heavyweight Champion and Graham hopes to arrange to have him at the next Boys Ranch benefit match.

And, after the success of the first match, all parties see the event shaping up as an annual affair. "I don't see why we can't do this every year," Graham said.

Sheriff Phillips said the crowd, which filled to overflowing the Suwannee County Coliseum, was the largest ever in that building.

All reserve seats were sold out in three days with wrestling fans coming from Tampa, Jacksonville, Tallahassee and Valdosta, Georgia.

The Sheriff said about $2,800 had been raised and pointed out Graham, Don Curtis, Bob Roop and John Heath had paid their own travel expenses and received not a cent for wrestling.

Heading the card was Florida Heavyweight Champion Jack Brisco, who gets in the neighborhood of $1,000 for a match. His fee for this match was zero although he had to fly in from St. Louis on a Saturday morning, wrestle that night, and return to St. Louis Sunday.

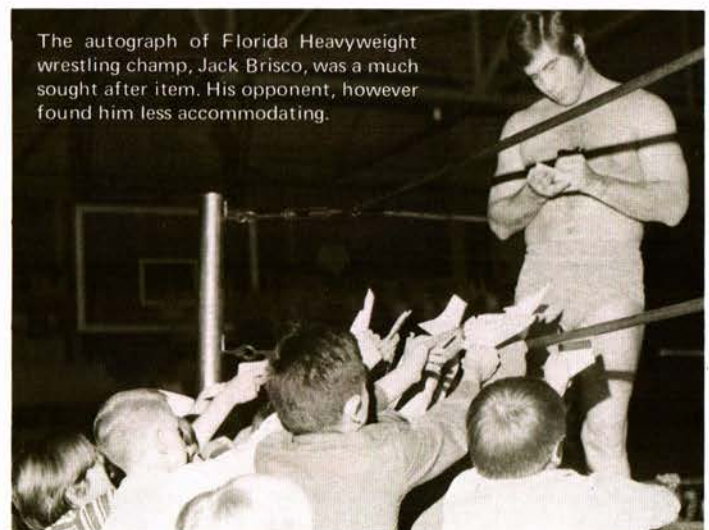

Graham himself paid three wrestlers to participate and arranged for a portable ring to be hauled from Tampa and set up in Live Oak.

The money raised by the Jaycees will go into a special recreation fund to purchase a date car for the use of the older boys at the Ranch and also to buy recreation equipment for the Boys Ranch gymnasium.

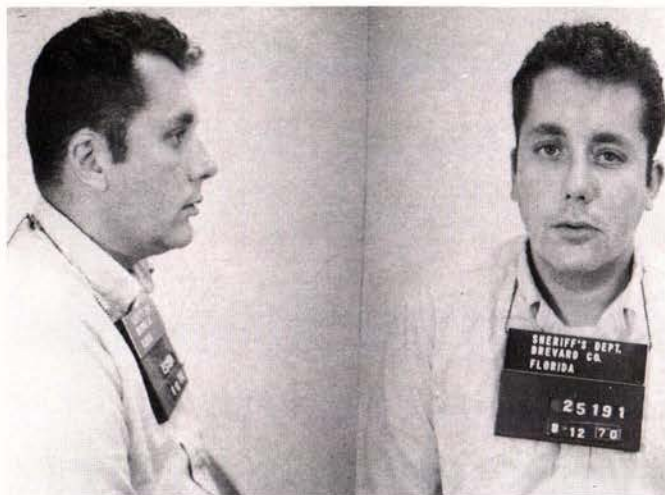

Oh yes, for our wrestling fans, the match between Graham and the Blue Demon ended in a draw as did a match between Roop and "Coach" Heath. The tag team combination of Graham and Curtis took two falls from the Blue Demons while Jack Brisco successfully defended his Florida Heavyweight title against Mr. Saito.

It's hard to tell if Boys Ranch Executive Director Harry Weaver is shaking hands with Graham and Don Curtis to thank them for putting on the benefit match or for not making him wrestle. Suwannee County Sheriff J. M. "Buddy" Phillips (right) and Live Oak Jaycee member Gerry Lord served as co-chairmen for the event.

The autograph of Florida Heavyweight wrestling champ, Jack Brisco, was a much sought after item. His opponent, however found him less accommodating.

ALUMINUM CANS COLLECTED FOR BOYS RANCH AND BOYS CLUBS

CLEARWATER—TAMPA—"Litter into Loot" could be the theme of the aluminum can reclamation drive begun in the Tampa Bay area for the benefit of the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch and local Boys Clubs. Drums have been placed at 7-Eleven Stores in Pinellas and Hillsborough counties for people to place their cans in. The cans are then collected and taken to Tampa where they are sold to the distributor. In the picture on the left (left to right) are John Turner,

Citizens Helped to Help Themselves

JACKSONVILLE—A drive by the Duval County Sheriff's Department, to cut down on burglaries was welcomed by 84 residents who called in for security checks of their homes and apartments the first day.

Responding to the city's largest single factor in crime — burglary — Sheriff Dale Carson announced a program to help citizens help themselves and the police combat the burglary rate which saw 9,000 break-ins committed in 1969 and some 10,000 in 1970.

Members of the uniformed police reserve, specially trained in residential security, made calls on homeowners and apartment dwellers phoning the Sheriff's Department for the checks. Officers made recommendations for installation of new locks and other protective devices.

"I am delighted at the public's response," Sheriff Carson said. "We hope this program will help us to be better able to cope with the burglary problem in Jacksonville.

"We can knock our crime rate way down if people will look after their own homes and cars and make sure they don't actually tempt thieves."

Another part of the plan to stem the rise of burglaries, was the formation of two 10-man squads of policemen working on stake outs and other projects in areas with the highest incidence of burglaries.

FORT MYERS — If you want to be symbolic, perhaps this is how the world looks to a drug addict who is on the bottom looking up — with drugs and drug paraphernalia dominating his view of everything except "final judgment" represented by the law enforcement officers in the background. If you want to be realistic, it's simply an unusual camera angle achieved by photographer Art Hill shooting up through a glass table. The lawmen are (from left) Capt. Al Senftleber, Sheriff Flanders Thompson, and Lt. Paul Palumbo, of the Lee County Sheriff's Department, looking over evidence picked up in drug raids.
