MACCLENNY—MOBILE MOONSHINE STILL—Baker County Deputy Sheriff G. W. Rhoden (left) and Florida Highway Patrol Trooper L. B. Boyette inspect a mobile moonshine still they confiscated recently. The "cooker" fired with butane gas, was built on a flatbed truck and additional equipment was carried in a panel truck. Once the cooker was loaded with a batch of fermented mash it could go into business anywhere as long as a source of water was available to cool the condenser. (Photo courtesy Florida Times-Union.)

Probe Verifies B-Men Made False Report On Moonshine Still Raid

MACCLENNY—An investigation by the State Beverage Department verified Sheriff Ed Yarbrough's claim that beverage agents had reported destruction of a non-existent 1,000-gallon capacity moonshine still in Baker County.

When Sheriff Yarbrough received a notarized report that the still had been destroyed near Baxter he went to the site and found a rusty container that had been dumped alongside a road about two years ago. The container had been dynamited, he said, but there was no evidence that mash or plastic pipe had been destroyed as stated in the notarized report.

The Sheriff requested State Beverage Director Thomas Lee to investigate and Lee did. Following the investigation Lee sent the following letter to the Sheriff verifying that the report had been in error and expressing sincere regrets:

Honorable E. Ed Yarbrough
Sheriff, Baker County
Macclenny, Florida
Dear Sheriff Yarbrough:
Pursuant to your report to me that one of our Agents had made a false report regarding the seizure and destruction of a still in Baker County, I immediately dispatched Mr. Hugh Miller, Regional Supervisor, to investigate the matter.

This investigation has been subsequently completed and as a result of the investigation, it appears that one of the Beverage Department Agents was incorrect and in error in reporting the seizure and/or destruction of two moonshine stills in Baker County during the period of May 22 through May 24, 1961.

The investigation discloses that one still was seized and destroyed, the second still reported being nothing but an abandoned still pot which had been known to the sheriff's Office and a local Agent of the Beverage Department at least two years.

I extend to you our sincere regrets regarding this error, as only through your fine efforts and cooperation with this Department has great progress been made in moonshine enforcement not only in Baker County but throughout the entire northeastern area of the State. We have been very proud of our fine cooperation with you and your office and look forward to your continued cooperation in the future.

With kind personal regards,
I am

Very sincerely yours,
Thomas E. Lee, Jr.

TV Show Based On FSB Work Now in Florida

"Tallahassee 7,000", the television crime show based upon the operations of the Florida Sheriffs Bureau, can now be seen by Florida viewers.

Channel 4 in Jacksonville and Channel 6 in Tallahassee have it programmed as a regular weekly feature. Other Florida stations are expected to start showing it later.

The show, filmed to run for 26 weeks in half-hour episodes, was produced by Screen Gems, Inc., creator of many TV headlines. The episodes were filmed in Florida and Hollywood with Walter Matthau portraying Special Agent Lex Rogers.

Early showings of the series were in New York, Los Angeles, Detroit and Dallas. The Florida Sheriffs Bureau, a state agency created to provide technical crime-fighting assistance to local enforcement officers, worked with the producers in an advisory capacity.

The Tallahassee premiere was held Wednesday, June 28, by Station WCTV, and was attended by Sheriffs Bureau Director Don McLeod; Highlands County Sheriff Broward Coker; Washington County Sheriff George Watts; Taylor County Sheriff Maurice Linton; Wakulla Coun-

Sheriffs Association Created in 1910 According to Old Document

A copy of the original constitution and by-laws drafted when the Florida Sheriffs Association was founded in 1910 has been located by W. R. England, former Assistant State Auditor and special consultant for the Sheriffs Association.

This document shows that the first president of the Association was Duval County Sheriff W. H. Dowling.

Other officers were Marion County Sheriff John P. Gallo-way, first vice president; Madison County Sheriff A. D. Stanton, second vice president; Lake County Sheriff T. C. Smyth, third vice president; and Leon County Sheriff J. P. S. Hous-toun, secretary-treasurer.

Fifty Sheriffs were listed as charter members, and this was apparently the total number of counties in Florida at that time. The only charter member still living is former Taylor County Sheriff John H. "Uncle Bud" Parker, of Perry.

The preamble of the constitution states that the Association was organized "to the end that the Sheriffs of Florida may be brought into closer touch with each other for their mutual benefit, as well as for the benefit of the several communities of this State, and for the benefit of the people generally."

Accomplishments of the Association over the past 50 years have been consistent with this original goal. They include the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch, the Sheriffs Association Scholarship Program, the budget-salary system for operating Sheriffs' Departments, better communications, creation of the Florida Sheriffs Bureau, standardized markings for patrol cars and uniforms for deputy sheriffs.

The Association has also been active in traffic and water safety and in fostering better criminal laws.

According to Mr. England, Palm Beach County Sheriff George H. Baker was one of the leading founders, as was also Suwannee County Sheriff W. H. Lyle.

He said after the Association was founded in 1910 interest lapsed and it became inactive about 1915.

He recalled that he and Palm Beach County Sheriff Bob Baker (son of Sheriff George H. Baker) traveled around the state visiting various Sheriffs to revive interest in the Association in 1927 and 1928.

A reorganization meeting was held in 1928, he said, and the Association has remained an active organization since that time.

CHARTER MEMBER—Former Wakulla County Sheriff Angus Morrison, in whose honor a section of U.S. Highway 98 was recently named, was a charter member of the Florida Sheriffs Association. (See story below.) His son, the Hon. Harry Morrison, of Crawfordville, is Assistant State Attorney for the Second Judicial District.

Highway Named In Honor Of Former Sheriff

CRAWFORDVILLE — The 1961 Florida Legislature passed a bill naming a section of U. S. Route 98 in Wakulla County the Angus Morrison Memorial Highway in honor of a former Wakulla County Sheriff.

Introduced by Senator Luther Tucker and steered through the House by Wakulla County Representative Bobby Russ, the bill points out that Sheriff Morrison also served in the Florida House of Representatives and was a member of this body at the time of his death, July 20, 1937.

The bill also stated that he had a noted business career and was actively identified with public and civic affairs in the state of Florida for more than 25 years.

A third generation native of Wakulla County, Sheriff Morrison held his first public office at the age of 21 when he became a councilman of the town of Sopchoppy. He was 24 years of age when he was elected Sheriff of Wakulla County and he continued in that position for 20 years.

He was a charter member of the Florida Sheriffs Association and was widely known for his honest, efficient and faithful discharge of public duties.

In transporting prisoners from all sections of the United States he maintained a record of never having lost a man.

Mystery Solved By Finding of Sunken Truck

MACCLENNEY — A mystery that had pestered Sheriff Ed Yarbrough for years was solved last month when human remains found in a submerged truck were identified as those of Bobby Combs, 18, and Earl Jones, both of Maccleddy, who disappeared the night of Dec. 4, 1955.

The Sheriff speculated that the youths had been crossing a bridge which had no railing when the truck in which they were riding plunged into Cowarts Creek, about nine miles north of here.

Two boys attempting to build a swimming hole in the creek discovered the submerged truck and Sheriff Yarbrough said it was definitely identified as the one in which the boys had been riding the night they disappeared.

The section of the creek in which the truck was found was dammed up and drained to speed the hunt for clues. The Sheriff said a shoe found in the mud was identified as belonging to one of the boys.

Human bones found in the truck and in the bottom of the creek were examined to determine their age.

Elks Put Boyer In State Post

SARASOTA — Sheriff Ross Boyer was recently named state chairman of the Youth Activities Committee of the Florida State Elks Association.

Boyer, a former exalted ruler of the Sarasota Elks Lodge, said the committee will not meet until after the Grand Lodge convention in Miami, beginning July 9.

Interested in youth work for many years, Sheriff Boyer has taken an active role in developing the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch and has promoted youth safety programs in Sarasota County.

He is a member of the Board of Governors of the National Sheriffs Association which recently passed a resolution opposing confinement of juveniles in county jails; and he was also one of the first to endorse a proposed Juvenile Detention Home which would take juveniles out of the Sarasota County Jail.

Big Haul From Moonshine Raid

CRAWFORDVILLE—A moonshine raid staged by Sheriff W. R. Taft together with state and federal agents resulted in a haul described as the largest in Wakulla County in the past two years.

The officers confiscated a "ground hog" type still, 1,000 gallons of mash and a 1956 pickup truck about seven miles southeast of Shadeville.

Alvin Quincy Vickers, Rt. 1, Crawfordville; and Phillip Lemuel McKensie, Sopchoppy, were charged with moonshine violations and bond was set at $1,000 for each man.

Charlotte Hoosegow Closed Temporarily

PUNTA GORDA — Charlotte County Sheriff Travis Parnell was out of the jail business temporarily while a new $700,000 addition to the county court house was under construction.

Late in April he transferred 22 prisoners to neighboring counties temporarily while work was in progress on new jail quarters. On June 17 he received the key to two completed two-man cells and expected to have more facilities available within a matter of weeks.

Newspaper Launches 2nd Annual Campaign to Benefit Boys Ranch

ST. PETERSBURG—The St. Petersburg Independent, daily newspaper, for the second consecutive year, is putting on a subscription drive with Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch as a beneficiary.

In announcing its second annual drive the Independent pointed out that underprivileged boys throughout the state can look to the Boys Ranch for a fresh start in life.

"We cannot personally come to the aid of these boys, nor can our law enforcement or social agencies meet the whole need," the Independent said, "but we are in a position to help the Boys Ranch do just this."

The newspaper explained that a door-to-door canvass will be conducted for subscriptions and a portion of the money obtained for each subscription will go to the Ranch.

The entire front page of a special section of the newspaper was devoted to announcing the drive and publicizing the work of the Boys Ranch. It was topped with a headline that stated: "Boys Ranch Fills Urgent Need."

Also publicized was Sheriff Don Genung's Junior Deputy program which has received nation-wide recognition as a means of fostering greater respect for law enforcement among youngsters.

The Pinellas County School Board has approved the League

as an official extra-curricular activity and Genung's goal is to enroll some 2,400 members during the coming school term.

Ranchers Form New 4-H Club

Thirteen boys are charter members of a new 4-H Club recently organized at the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch.

The Ranch offers unlimited opportunities for boys to participate in 4-H Club work, especially in animal type projects. In fact, nearly all of the boys are taking at least one animal project.

Four are taking dairy projects, one is taking swine and six are taking either steers or beef breeding animals as projects. Other projects include public speaking and tractor care.

The Club plans to build a shed to house all of the boys' animals, with each boy having a separate stall for his animal.

Clenny Beach, farm manager at the Ranch, is the adult leader of the Club; and Wally Edwards was elected as the first president.

Other officers are: Lloyd deGerald, vice president; James Snow, secretary-treasurer and reporter; Mike Edwards, recreational leader; and Buddy McHenry, council delegate.

Boys Ranch Nine Plays All-Stars Of Pony League

ORLANDO — The Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch baseball team lost an extra-inning thriller to the All-Stars of the Jaycee Pony League here June 23, but the youngsters had a wonderful time and went back to the Ranch with a generous share of the gate receipts.

The Ranchers were ahead 7-0 in early innings but the All-Stars tied the score and then forged ahead to win. The players were accompanied on the trip by Ranch Farm Manager Clenny Beach and Live Oak High School Coach Bill Long.

The benefit game was sponsored by Orange County Sheriff Dave Starr and the Orlando Junior Chamber of Commerce. The Boys Ranch share of the proceeds was over $800.

Following the ball game the young Ranchers were treated to a boat trip from Sanford to Ponce de Leon Springs, on the St. Johns River.

Volusia County Deputy Sheriffs and the Daytona Beach Lions provided food for the boys after they arrived at the springs.

Ranchers Camp on St. George Island

APALACHICOLA — Eighteen boys from the Florida Sheriffs Boys Ranch accompanied by staff members enjoyed a delightful outing on the beach at St. George Island, near here, last month.

They spent several days on the island and camped out on the beach. Arrangements were made with the assistance of Franklin County Sheriff Herbert O. Marshall.

Parnell, Byrd Honored for Solving Murders

PORT CHARLOTTE—Charlotte County Sheriff Travis Parnell and his chief deputy, Lonnie Byrd, were honored by the National Police Officers' Association of America for solving two difficult murder cases.

The Association presented citations to them for their outstanding work in the slayings of Walter V. McCoy, El Jobean storekeeper; and Mrs. Mildred Neil, of Newman, Ga.

Mrs. Neil was Charlotte County's "woman of mystery" for more than two months while more than 3,000 persons viewed her shotgun-blasted body in an attempt to identify her. Persistence and good police work on the part of the Sheriff and Byrd eventually established her identity and resulted in charges against the man accused of shooting her.

The citations were presented by Gerald S. Arenberg, director of the National Police Hall of Fame and Museum, located here. He referred to Sheriff Parnell as "one of the best men in the State of Florida" and chided the public about the pay given to peace officers.

"You are expecting a man to lay down his life for little more than a dollar an hour," he said.

Deputies Catch Armed Fugitive

STUART—An armed fugitive described as dangerous was trapped and placed under arrest by two Martin County Deputy Sheriffs.

The wanted man, Arthur Montano, of Miami, was spotted by Deputy James Mills as he was traveling north in a car driven by another man.

Mills radioed ahead for Deputy Ray Heasley to set up a road block and began to tail the car.

When the car was trapped by the road block the Deputies found Montano asleep on the back seat, as docile as a kitten, but with a Colt .32 automatic within his reach.

Montano, who was wanted in connection with the $10,000 holdup of a Cypress Gardens accountant, was held by Sheriff Roy C. Baker for Polk County authorities.

Theft of $300 Worth of Whisky Solved in Marion

OCALA—Sheriff Doug Willis reported that the theft of more than $300 worth of whisky from an Ocala package store was solved by his department with the arrest of two local men.

Doyle Lee Lewis, 17, and Arthel Campbell, 30, were arrested with two female companions a short time after they returned to Ocala from Georgia.

Upon arraignment Lewis pleaded guilty to grand larceny and Campbell pleaded guilty to breaking and entering.

NAPLES — CAMPAIGN POSTER — The poster above was distributed in Collier County public schools as part of an educational drive by Sheriff Doug Hendry and the FBI to train children to be on guard against child molesters. Youngsters were requested to color the poster and memorize the rules printed on the bottom of it. Issuing a warning about the dangers of child molestation, Sheriff Hendry cited a local case in which a would-be molester was recently apprehended by the Sheriff's Department and held for commitment to a mental institution. "Please bear in mind," he said, "that it can and does happen here — today, tomorrow, next week or at any moment."

Giving Lie Detector Tests to Job Applicants is New Trend

(The following Associated Press dispatch written by Irwin Frank is reprinted from the May 24, 1961, issue of The Tallahassee Democrat.)

DALLAS, Tex. — The rubber hose is stretched across your chest. Then the electrode is placed in your hand. The gray cloth of the blood-pressure machine is wrapped around your arm.

You look straight ahead at a blank wall.

In a quiet, slow voice the man asks you questions.

"Is your name Jack Collins?"

"Are you 38 years old?"

"Have you ever stolen from your employer?"

"Do you have a police record?"

Carson's Report Shows Increase In Vice Arrests

JACKSONVILLE — A substantial increase in gambling and prostitution arrests is noted in Sheriff Dale Carson's annual report covering the year 1960.

Sheriff Carson said arrests of this type by his vice squad increased from 496 in 1959 to 544 in 1960; and involved gambling outlets with an annual potential of nearly $2,000,000 a year.

The report shows that the Duval County Patrol, the Sheriff's mobile arm, responded to 66,637 calls resulting from traffic accidents and various types of criminal activity. This was an increase of 1,128 over 1959.

Although Duval County had an increase in motor vehicle registrations and in the number of licensed drivers, the Patrol reported a drop in traffic deaths and in the number of injuries in traffic accidents. On the other hand, the number of traffic accidents increased by 228 over 1959.

Sheriff Carson's detective division investigated 11 murders, 13 manslaughter cases, 170 assault cases and nine rape cases. Assaults dropped from 217 and rapes from 26 the previous year.

The county jail population showed a steady increase. The average daily jail population in 1960 was 369, compared with 323 in 1959; 296 in 1958 and 267 in 1957.

Carson's civil department increased its work by a total of 3,115 legal papers processed and served. The total for 1959 was 15,290 documents; and for 1960 it was 18,405.

Andy's Quitting As Councilman

DEFUNIAK SPRINGS—Howard (Andy) Anderson is quitting after serving as a city councilman here for 15 years and doubling most of that time as fire chief, according to the Pensacola Journal.

But, he'll still have his hands full since he is currently serving a four-year term as Sheriff of Walton County.

This Thief Could Execute Himself

BRADENTON—The thief who stole a 50-pound cylinder from the Gulf Coast Experimental Station, in Manatee County, will be exterminated like a termite if he opens the release handle.

The Manatee County Sheriff's Department issued a warning that the cylinder contains methyl bromide, a deadly poison gas which can be fatal if absorbed through the skin or inhaled. It is used in termite control and to kill weeds and insects.

All the time the questions are asked, and all the time you think, and answer, three metal arms make small zig zag lines on an endless roll of paper.

You're taking a lie detector test. The test is not to determine whether you go to jail. It will help determine if you get the job you seek.

A GROWING TREND

Giving lie detector tests to job applicants is a growing national trend. In Dallas this year about 20,000 persons will be tested by Truth Verification, Inc., the largest company of its kind in the country, says its president, Lee Keener.

Truth Verification's services are also used by employers trying to determine who stole the six radios from the stockroom, who took $56 from the cash register, who took the bottle of whisky from Room 432 of the hotel.

And it is used, says Keener, by the chambermaid who wants to prove she did not take the whisky, the sales clerk who says he didn't take the money, and the three shipping room clerks who claim the radios were gone when they came to work Monday morning.

A company using Keener's services sends all job applicants to Truth Verification after they have filled out their employment applications.

Not all agree to the tests, however.

Claudine Johnson, manager of an employment agency, says three out of four persons asked to take the tests object. Two of the three take them, nevertheless.

Other employment agency managers say they have had no complaints about the tests.

Keener says, "About 2 per cent of the applicants fail to show up for the test. We have checked on these 2 per cent, and we find that 95 per cent of them have some kind of background problem that would have prevented them from getting the job."

What about a man with a past prison record who wants to go straight? What about the persons with a history of excessive drinking? Don't the tests prevent such persons from ever getting a job?

Keener says just the opposite is true.

'HONEST INTENTIONS'

"Most employers are prone to give everybody a chance if they feel they are not taking too much of a risk. If a man with a past criminal record says he wants to go straight—and the lie detector test shows he's telling the truth—the employer may hire him because we have shown the man has honest intentions."

"If a man with a drinking problem says he hasn't had a drop in eight months—and the machine proves he's telling the truth—he stands an excellent chance of being hired," says Keener.

One of the other uses of the lie detector test—or the truth verification test, as Keener prefers to call it—is to determine why a person wants a particular job.

"It costs a long distance trucking company hundreds of dollars to train a truck driver," Keener says, "and before a company starts a man on a training program, it wants to know if the man intends to remain with the company or try to sell his newly acquired skills to some other firm. The test will show what the man's intentions are."

Just Dropped in MIAMI—Crowded with a busy schedule and not wanting to miss a speaking engagement at the 6th birthday celebration of his Employees Auxiliary, Sheriff Thomas J. Kelly landed via police helicopter at the Miami Shrine Building, made a brief appearance at the birthday event, and took off for another important appointment.

Blind Man Befriended by Deputies Decides It's a Pretty Good World

WEST PALM BEACH—"You know when you come to think of it, it's a pretty good world," said Charles Bethel, blind Negro troubadour.

Charles made this discovery at the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Department after he reported that two unidentified men had stolen his expensive electric guitar in Fort Pierce.

Deputy Sheriff Wayne Elliott, radio dispatcher, heard the blind man's story and took up a collection to buy a new guitar.

After the money had been collected, Capt. P. P. Wanat went to the Farmer's Market to see Carl and Bess who sell musical instruments at the market.

When Carl and Bess heard what the Captain wanted they not only sold him a guitar at a discount of almost 50 per cent but also threw in a set of extra strings.

Upon Captain Wanat's return to the sheriff's office, employees gathered around and watched the happy smile that lit up the blind man's face when the guitar was handed to him.

He thanked everyone for their kindness and happily sang a hymn for his benefactors. Then, after lunch by courtesy of the Sheriff's Department, he went back to his usual occupation—singing and strumming his guitar on the streets of West Palm Beach.

Finally the youngster's mother found he was missing and called the sheriff's office. Tony received the information and quickly returned Johnny to his mother.

Cash Held Key To Enforcement

FT. WALTON BEACH—The need for adequate financing to provide the kind of law enforcement the public deserves was stressed by Okaloosa County Sheriff Ray Wilson in a speech before the Fort Walton Beach Rotary Club.

He said law enforcement is one of the most expensive items on all levels of government and he expressed the opinion that citizens feel about good law enforcement the same way they feel about good schools. They want good protection and they are willing to pay for it, he added.

The Sheriff said there was no excuse for a county the size of Okaloosa, with a population of over 61,000, to have only six full-time deputy sheriffs to cover the entire area. This manpower shortage can only be cured by adequate finances, he declared.

Sheriff Wilson went on to declare that the county is fortunate to have the services of the 50-man Sheriff's Posse, a group of non-paid citizens who assist the Sheriff in times of emergency and help to alleviate the lack of full-time manpower.

These volunteer officers proved their value and effectiveness recently, he said, when they helped to foil an extortion attempt in Crestview.

Deputies Given Brisk Workout

MARIANNA—Charles Campbell led the Jackson County Sheriff's Department and bloodhounds on a merry chase when Chief Deputy Sheriff Robert Applewhite went to his house to arrest him.

Sheriff Barkley Gause said Campbell ran out the back door and into a swamp near the Chipola River.

The Sheriff called out the dogs and stationed men on both sides of the river. The bloodhounds picked up the trail and Campbell was spotted in the undergrowth at a distance, but was gone "like a jackrabbit."

Later he was spotted on the east bank of the river and deputies converged on the area. Deputy J. W. Cook, driving down a road in the area, spotted him and took him into custody.

Applewhite had sought to arrest Campbell because he was under bond and the bondsman had come off his bond. After the chase, when Campbell was brought to the county jail, he asked: "Can I use the telephone? I want to get somebody to go on my bond."

Wilson Thanks Non-Paid Aides

FT. WALTON BEACH—In a letter printed in the Playground News, weekly newspaper, Sheriff Ray Wilson expressed his sincere appreciation for services rendered by the Okaloosa County Sheriff's Posse, the Okaloosa County Sheriff's Rescue Team and the Auxiliary Deputies.

He pointed out that the members of these organizations are available to travel many miles at any time of the day or night to help with a manhunt, a rescue mission or any type of investigation that might arise—and they do this at their own expense, without any remuneration.

"The help given by these men," he added, "has proven one of our greatest assets in helping us to do a better job for all the people throughout Okaloosa County."

Apprehension of Young Slayers Job Well Done

JACKSONVILLE—Apprehension of two young men sought by Sheriff Dale Carson for the murder of two Georgia women was described by the Florida Times-Union, daily newspaper, as "an outstanding example of superior police work."

The newspaper said Sheriff Carson, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Sheriff's Department of Tooele County, Utah, deserve public commendation for a job well done.

The young men, identified as George Ronald York, 18, of Jacksonville; and James D. Latham, 19, of Mauriceville, Tex., were apprehended in Utah. They admitted a cross-country slaying spree which included the double murder in Jacksonville.

Tracing the development of the case, the Times-Union said: "The routine started here in Jacksonville with the discovery of the victims' car. That led to a search for the missing women and a week later the discovery of their bodies."

"Careful police work by local officers provided a description of the vehicle driven by the suspects. At this point the nationwide facilities of the FBI came into play and it was these facilities, plus the alertness of one officer that solved the case."

"The FBI sent 'flyers' to thousands of law enforcement agencies in the nation asking them to look for the vehicles involved. Crimes in other states began to fit into a pattern and the FBI description became more complete. At this point, capture was only a matter of time. The alertness of Sheriff Fay Gillette (Tooele County, Utah) reduced the time to a minimum and perhaps prevented more murders."

"That's how it was done. It could not have been done without excellent police work and close cooperation between various agencies. The fact that it was done, and so rapidly, is why law-abiding citizens in our nation sleep well at night and why crime still does not pay."

The boy said he had been lured into a car by a man who said he would take him on a fishing trip. When the trip failed to materialize, the boy became frightened and fled from the man.

The boy's parents praised the sheriff's department highly for its effective handling of the case.

Writer Ponders Need for Strict Firearms Law to Curb Crimes

(The following article was written by Bruce Biosat and is reprinted from the Pensacola News.)

PENSACOLA—Often when a flurry of crime hits a community, interest stirs afresh in the question: Are there too many guns too readily at hand?

Recently, authorities in a big eastern city reported that small firearms by the hundreds were either being shipped in or sold over the counter in the area each month, with little or no restriction. Countless other places could tell the same story.

Eighteen of the 50 states require retail gun sellers to be licensed. The other states have no such laws. Seven require permits for the purchase of a handgun and one, New York, demands that an individual be licensed to possess such a gun even in his home.

As for carrying a gun on or about the person, 27 states require licenses for such purpose. Most of the others flatly prohibit the practice, though a few qualify this and four have neither a ban nor a license requirement.

There are two U.S. firearms laws, one requiring registration and imposing a tax on the making or transfer of certain kinds of guns, the other placing limits or a ban on the interstate movement of all firearms types and of handgun ammunition.

Some spokesmen for law enforcement agencies believe the net of all this is "tremendous laxity" in the nation's gun laws.

The staggering postwar increase in crime appears to have struck impartially at states with stiff and with weak firearms control.

A sociologist studied all 588 murders committed in Philadelphia in a certain year. He voiced doubt that killings due to shooting would have been avoided had firearms not been available. He was convinced the offenders would simply have picked other weapons.

Still, a good many enforcement officials think much would be gained if the states adopted a uniform firearms law with heavy stress on keeping guns out of criminals' hands and punishing criminals severely when they employ firearms in committing a crime.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover is in the forefront on this issue, asserting "the time for insignificant fines and the mere confiscation of weapons as punishment for carrying concealed instruments of death is past."

He argues, too, that since most criminals steal their weapons, far greater care against theft needs to be exercised by business firms, homeowners with guns, military establishments. Even the police suffer embarrassing losses.

This much appears plain: Criminals don't need guns, but easy access to them certainly doesn't make their dirty work any tougher.

Undaunted by Wound, Bessenger Runs Office From Hospital Bed

DADE CITY — Running a busy sheriff's department from a hospital bed is not the easiest job in the world, but Pasco County Sheriff Leslie Bessenger did it despite pain, discomfort and inconvenience.

Sheriff Bessenger was shot and seriously wounded in the right leg when James Byrd, 29, an ex-Marine, tried to shoot his way out of the Pasco County Jail on May 13.

Byrd had been arrested a few minutes earlier and was being searched when he pulled a .25 caliber pistol. He shot the Sheriff and Jailer Richard Johnson before he was subdued and disarmed.

Johnson was released from a Tampa hospital May 21, but Sheriff Bessenger faced a longer hospital stay. He was transferred from Tampa General Hospital to Jackson Memorial Hospital here to be closer to his department.

He had a direct telephone line from his bedside to the sheriff's office, and if any serious emergency arose he knew he could obtain quick assistance from neighboring sheriffs such as Ed

Blackburn Jr., in Hillsborough County; Sim Lowman, in Hernando County; and Don Genung, in Pinellas County.

The man who shot Sheriff Bessenger was arraigned before Circuit Court Judge Orvil L. Dayton Jr., June 14, on charges of assault with intent to commit first degree murder, and pleaded not guilty. His trial was tentatively set for July 24.

Byrd also faces a statutory rape charge involving a 15-year-old girl and is awaiting hearing on a motion for a new trial in a circuit court conviction of manslaughter stemming from the slaying of his former employer, Curtis Johnson.

A veteran of 21 years as Sheriff of Pasco County, Bessenger has been shot at, swung at and sometimes cursed, but he will not deny that he never came closer to sudden death than he did in the escape-attempt shooting.

However, this hasn't changed his desire to get back into law enforcement "with both feet" as soon as he gets a walking cast on his wounded leg.

Blackburn's Marksmanship Gives Happy Ending to Saga of Snake

TAMPA—Sheriff Ed Blackburn Jr. has vindicated himself as a marksman.

There was some doubt about the Sheriff's sharpshooting ability after Tampa Tribune staff writer Paul Wilder printed a feature article about an encounter he and Blackburn had with a rattlesnake. He said the Sheriff had shot at the snake and missed.

Blackburn's defense was that he had only one bullet with him, and he would have blasted the reptile to Kingdom Come if he had had some more ammo.

However, there were some mutterings that "a Sheriff shouldn't miss, even if he only has one bullet. They never do on Television."

Blackburn was in a ticklish spot. "It's not good politics to miss," he admitted sadly.

Then opportunity knocked. He went fishing with his good friend J. H. Stallings, chairman of the State Welfare Board, and the fishing was slow.

"We had plenty of time to look around," said Blackburn. "Hal spotted a moccasin lying on a limb about 15 feet from the boat. I loaded up this junior-sized hawg-leg while Hal was trying to place a wager with me about hitting the snake. But, since in some circles the practice of wagering by sheriffs is frowned upon I let this opportunity slip by."

Blackburn felled the snake with one shot and was basking in his restored pride when Stallings spotted another huge snake dozing on a limb.

"Blam"—one shot and Blackburn brought down the second snake.

Then the Sheriff returned to Tampa—head high, shoulders back ready to face his constituents without flinching.

CLEARWATER—NEW OFFICE—When construction of a new addition to the Pinellas County courthouse and jail created space problems in the old courthouse building, Sheriff Don Genung moved his office temporarily into a house trailer parked beside the jail. The trailer is shown being moved into position. Happy about the new addition to the overcrowded jail, Sheriff Genung said he did not mind at all the inconvenience of his temporary quarters.
